Checklist for Differentiating Instruction

In g	general have I considered students' individual needs and learning profiles to determine the accommodations, modifications and adaptations necessary for success?
With regard to the selection and scope of outcomes, have I selected fewer outcomes or made allowances for partial outcomes for some students?
	aligned the planned activities to the level of learner support associated with the outcomes in question?
	decided how students will apply their learning?
	determined what the students will be able to demonstrate as a result of this learning activity?
	decided where and how the lesson plan can be adjusted to accommodate new needs, ideas or information?
With regard to key concepts, have I identified the key concepts of the unit to be taught and activities used to support these concepts?
	made the key concepts explicit to the students?
	made a clear link between the key concepts being presented and those related concepts that were previously addressed in the course?
	provided opportunities for students to relate the key concepts to their own experiences or understanding?
	incorporated opportunities to allow students to make connections between what they know and what they are learning?
	presented and supported the key concepts, using demonstration, oral, visual and written support as well as illustrative examples?
	highlighted key points of the lesson orally and visually?
	ensured that students have accurately taken notes of each day's key points for future reference?
With regard to planned learning activities, have I selected appropriate instructional strategies and learning activities that will create opportunities for students to successfully achieve the target outcomes?
	selected extension activities that will reinforce and extend learning?
	provided opportunities for students to use different learning modalities; e.g., visual, auditory, kinesthetic, interpersonal, intrapersonal?
	considered how the students will be organized for instruction?
	selected the type of grouping that will be most effective for a particular activity or a particular end goal?
	made decisions about grouping students based on learning profile, interest, readiness or need?
	presented and supported instructions using demonstration, oral and written steps and exemplars of completed assignments?
	broken down assignments or tasks into smaller, more manageable parts?
	given clear, concrete instructions and repeated them where necessary?
	supported written instructions with picture prompts?

	modelled the type of actions or strategies expected of students when they are engaged in the assigned learning activity?
	highlighted directions using a colour-coding system or other type of visual support?
	provided a visual reference of the sequence of key steps in completing the assignment?
	asked students to recall the instructions in sequence or to indicate in some other way that they have understood the directions?
	provided a checklist of assignment parts so that students may monitor their progress through the instructions as they complete the specified steps or tasks?
	audio recorded presentations or directions for playback as needed?
	written assignments and homework on a chart or blackboard?
	ensured that students write down assignments in their agendas?
Wit	th regard to resources, have I decided on the resources that will be used for the learning activity, including oral, print, media texts and community resources?
	determined Web-based supports where helpful; e.g., animated language structures, learning objects, simulations, audio texts?
	considered using a graphic organizer to present information?
	provided an advance organizer for note-taking; e.g., fill-in-the-blank, cloze style?
	located necessary materials and resources to support different learning styles and student needs?
	located or prepared necessary materials and resources to support students with learning difficulties or those working with different reading levels:
	☐ by highlighting passages of text?
	☐ by providing an enlarged copy of material?
	☐ by rewriting materials at a lower reading level?
	☐ by reformatting handouts and tests to include larger spaces and lines for written responses as necessary?
	ensured that students have the assistive tools and devices required to support their learning style or needs, such as rulers, overlays, recordings, computers, or access to a scribe for major assessments where needed?
	helped students stay on task by employing a cueing strategy?
	checked in with students regularly to ensure that the task is understood and provided feedback and clarification on specific aspects of the assignment?
Wh	en it comes to timelines, have I determined an approximate timeline for the learning activity?
	prepared an assignment sheet with task increments and a timeline to guide students' completion of the assignment?
	considered the pace of the learning activity and the needs of the students?
	determined whether there is a need to compact or extend the study, based on student needs?
	considered ways to change the pace and allow students to focus on the task for more condensed periods of time, if necessary?

 □ provided students with time warnings for task completion? □ extended deadlines for those students who require more time to complete assignments? □ recorded important assignments and test due dates on a master calendar? □ had students write dates for upcoming assignments and tests into their agendas? □ shown students how to plan for longer assignments by back-planning on a calendar? With regard to assessment, have I □ determined the best way for students to demonstrate their learning? □ defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to of considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materialividual students? □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided anditional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, cip permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided additional or personal w	ent breaks, if necessary?
 □ recorded important assignments and test due dates on a master calendar? □ had students write dates for upcoming assignments and tests into their agendas? □ shown students how to plan for longer assignments by back-planning on a calendar? With regard to assessment, have I □ determined the best way for students to demonstrate their learning? □ defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to of □ considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, situations)? □ provided and directions in written form? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked	nings for task completion?
 □ had students write dates for upcoming assignments and tests into their agendas? □ shown students how to plan for longer assignments by back-planning on a calendar? With regard to assessment, have I □ determined the best way for students to demonstrate their learning? □ defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to of □ considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, situations)? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided enceklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularl	dents who require more time to complete assignments?
□ shown students how to plan for longer assignments by back-planning on a calendar? With regard to assessment, have I □ determined the best way for students to demonstrate their learning? □ defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to ot □ considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materi individual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, single permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	and test due dates on a master calendar?
with regard to assessment, have I □ determined the best way for students to demonstrate their learning? □ defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to ot considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and material individual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, single permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	oming assignments and tests into their agendas?
determined the best way for students to demonstrate their learning? defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to of considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? provided assessment options for students to show what they know? shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? shown students how to study for an upcoming test? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materiandividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have 1 provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, a permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	onger assignments by back-planning on a calendar?
 □ defined the focus of the assessment and decided not to penalize students for errors related to of considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materialized individual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have 1 □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	ve I □ considered necessary alternate assessment options to accommodate different learning styles, in strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materialized individual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have 1 □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, spermitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	lents to demonstrate their learning?
strengths? □ provided assessment options for students to show what they know? □ shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? □ selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, and permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	ent and decided not to penalize students for errors related to other matters?
shared assignment criteria, checklists, standards and exemplars with students? selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? shown students how to study for an upcoming test? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, supermitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	ssessment options to accommodate different learning styles, interests or selected or developed rubrics, exemplars and checklists to support student assessment? provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? shown students how to study for an upcoming test? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, supermitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	students to show what they know?
 □ provided immediate, specific and constructive feedback? □ emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, significant permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	klists, standards and exemplars with students?
 emphasized the quality of work and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? shown students how to study for an upcoming test? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, spermitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	cemplars and checklists to support student assessment?
 □ provided opportunities for student self-reflection and self-assessment? □ shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? □ shown students how to study for an upcoming test? □ made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, so permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	d constructive feedback?
shown students how to turn the list of key concepts and other course notes or activity handouts study guide of important skills and concepts? shown students how to study for an upcoming test? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, and permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	and perseverance rather than the quantity of work? study guide of important skills and concepts? shown students how to study for an upcoming test? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, spermitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	nt self-reflection and self-assessment? made necessary preparations for alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materindividual students? With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, so permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, a permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	an upcoming test?
 □ provided alternative seating (e.g., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, distractions)? □ provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, a permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	alternative testing procedures, timelines, resources and materials for distractions)? provided additional or personal work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, spermitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? provided oral directions in written form? provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? set time limits for specific task completion? checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	With regard to students with specific attention difficulties, have I
 □ permitted movement during class activities and testing sessions? □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	., near teacher, facing teacher, between well-focused students, away from
 □ provided oral directions in written form? □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	work space (e.g., quiet area, extra seat or table, time-out spot, study carrels)?
 □ provided checklists to track progress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments? □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	ss activities and testing sessions?
 □ set time limits for specific task completion? □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	en form?
 □ checked in with the student regularly to help monitor progress? □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	gress of tasks that are part of long, detailed assignments?
 □ used place markers to allow the student to maintain position better or to focus attention? □ allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting 	completion?
allowed the student to wear noise buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting	larly to help monitor progress?
8	student to maintain position better or to focus attention?
	se buffer devices such as head phones to screen out distracting sounds where		